

synthesis

Synthesis /'sinθ sis/ n (pl syntheses) - the combining of separate things, especially ideas, to form a complex whole.

Thesaurus:

Amalgamation, blend, coalescence, combination, composite, fusion, integration, unification.

"The combined effort of the private, public, academia and research sectors to transform standards into new generation of products and services for the betterment of mankind."

金 木 水 火 土

Content

section one

金

(003)

(005)

(007)

Message by ITSC Chairman – Mr Robert Chew

Message by Chief Editor – Mr Daniel Wee

The “In and Out” of ITSC

section two

木

(013)

(021)

(027)

An Incremental Strategic Approach to Service-Oriented Architecture

Is Enterprise Architecture an Effective Strategy to Improving Enterprise Performance Effectiveness?

An Intelligent Rule-Based System for Whole-Life Cost and Sustainable Building Decisions – Adopting the CP 80 : 1999 Standard

section three

水

(035)

(045)

(053)

Using Genericcode in a Code List and Value Validation Methodology for XML Documents

Fingerprint Image Quality Evaluation Methodologies

Intelligent Transport Systems in Singapore

section four

火

(065)

(069)

(077)

(085)

Introducing Application Security

Development of International Standards on Information Security Management

The Role of Open Source Software, Open Standards, Open Content and E-Learning Standards in E-Learning

Driving Research into Standards – An I²R Perspective

section five

土

(093)

(103)

(109)

Enhancing Patient Care through Telecare, Telemedicine, and Personalised Patient Education in Singapore Health Services

Digital Ward – Innovating for the Hospital of the Future

EPCIS and Its Applications